CUSTOMER COMMUNICATION

Subject: Important Product Name Change – 50N Concrete Brick

Dear Customer,

We would like to inform you of an upcoming change to the name of one of our products.

As a result of changes to the applicable European Standard, the product previously known as the 50N Class B Engineering Quality Brick has been renamed 50N Concrete Brick.

Please note that this is a product name change only.

The product itself remains exactly the same, including its:

- 50N compressive strength
- Dimensions
- Manufacturing process
- Technical performance
- Durability characteristics
- Intended applications
- CE Marking and Declaration of Performance compliance

There has been no change to the product's quality, performance or suitability for use.

During the transition period, both product names will be recognised by our Sales Team and Customer Service teams to ensure continuity of supply and minimise any disruption.

Please update your purchasing systems, product references and future purchase orders to reflect the new product name:

50N Concrete Brick

For your information, we have attached the following documents:

- Product Change Notification (PCN)
- Declaration of Performance (DoP)
- CE Marking documentation

If you have any questions regarding this change or require any additional technical information, please contact your usual Kilsaran representative.

Thank you for your continued support.
